

Animal Policy

Service dogs are welcome in all areas open to the public.

Under federal law, a service animal is a dog individually trained to work or perform tasks for a person with a disability. Dogs whose sole function is to provide comfort, companionship, therapy, or emotional support are not considered service animals.

Leashed pets are welcome on the grounds.

Animals other than service dogs are not permitted inside the buildings, nor on the porch of the Main House during visiting hours. Leashed pets are permitted to join outdoor guided tours if all participants are comfortable with their presence.

Human visitors must clean up after their animals.

Animals may not be tethered to the structures at the Site.

Human visitors must stay with their animals at all times.

Any questions? Just ask!

